March 2017 Update

AHA! SPRING NEW & HEARTFELT THANKS

Mid-year AHA! Peace Builders Conference PHOTOS: Carly Otnes

THANK YOU for taking time from your busy day to hear our good news.

We are grateful to you for supporting our efforts to reach every junior high and high school in Santa Barbara. Your support has also helped us to implement a “train-the-trainers” program for youth providers, educators, and therapists that we hope will take AHA!’s revolutionary, impactful way of working with teens nationwide.

Your ongoing contributions uplift literally thousands of young people annually, providing for them a positive experience of a diverse community committed to kindness – where every voice and every dream matters.

SING IT OUT April 30, 2017 AT THE LOBERO THEATRE

On Sunday, April 30th, a dozen teenagers will take the stage one by one to sing rock-and-roll cover songs as participants in Sing it Out!, a joyful and inspiring program of AHA! Now in its 15th, Sing it Out will, for the first time, take place at the gorgeous Lobero Theatre in downtown Santa Barbara.

Rock musician Tina Schlieske and her band, Tina Schlieske and the Graceland Exiles with Sister Laura, will back up the teens, most of whom have never sung in public before. They have been practicing for months to overcome fears and individual challenges. The performance in front of a packed audience represents the culmination of their journeys. Two AHA! facilitators participate through the entire program along with the teens, sharing their trepidation and triumph.

VIP reception begins at 6:00 p.m. The show starts promptly at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available NOW at the Lobero box office at 805-963-0761 or www.lobero.org/events/sing-it-out/. Don’t miss the most uplifting event of the year!

Focus on AHA! Youth: Perla Sandoval

Perla is a senior at Santa Barbara High School. She has been with AHA! since 8th grade, and was recently accepted to UC Santa Cruz, where she plans to study either marine biology or sociology. She is currently an active AHA! Peace Builder and will be one of our performers at Sing It Out on April 30th.

About her experience with AHA!, she says, "I really pushed myself in high school to get to college. I told myself if I had the support of people at AHA!, I would make it – and it happened! As a person, I've grown a lot. AHA! helped me learn how to be more open with adults, and how to speak with people when I need help, and I think that is one of the most important things that I really needed. AHA! helped me get to know who I was as a person, too. In 8th grade I didn't see myself as a caring person, but in AHA! I have people telling me 'You're really nice,' or 'you're really outgoing,' or 'you have a spunky personality.' I never would have thought that was what I was going to become... I'm a first-generation college student. I'm proud. I hope I am making my three younger sisters proud and that I can push them to reach their limits too. I want my 7th grade sister to join AHA! next year. My other sisters are too young yet to think about it, but I think they will, because they're growing up with me and I want to set that example for them."

We are so proud of Perla! She has been a wonderful participant throughout the years and will be missed by her peers and by AHA! staff.

Focus on Staff: Michelle LeBeau, MSW

Michelle LeBeau is a core facilitator and program leader at AHA!. She has been working with youth for eleven years, since the age of 22. She earned her Master's in Social Work in 2013, and is near to completion of her LCSW licensure. She is instrumental to AHA! not just for her facilitation work and leadership, but also for her skills as a therapist; she is one of several therapists on the AHA! staff who offer a set of six free family therapy sessions to youth and families in need. She is an EMDR/trauma-informed care therapist.

Michelle and her husband Aaron Liggett married in 2015. They grew up together in the same small town of Manhattan Beach, but did not start dating until years later while in graduate school in separate states. They hope to raise a family here in Santa Barbara.

Michelle was recently promoted to program leader, and is heading our new AHA! Peace Builders program at La Colina Junior High, as well as the Carpinteria High School in-school and after-school programs.

About her work with AHA!, Michelle says, "I love this work in part because I have always felt connected to my inner child and the struggles of being a teenager, and because of the interpersonal accountability and integrity AHA! staff encourage among each other and provide within the community we serve. The teens in the AHA! programs are truly inspiring and rewarding to work with." We love Michelle's compassion, humor and warmth!

From Kareem Battle, Social Studies and AVID teacher at Santa Barbara Junior High School:

I truly support AHA! and similar programs because of the love and support you provide these young people to be happier and healthier human beings. You are the true inspirations for their success. You have no idea how many times I hear the students say, "it's Wednesday, AHA! Day, LETS GO!!!!!" It's a little chant and I love it because I know they love it. Thank you for all that you do for all our kids."

NEWSWORTHY

AHA! Executive Team in the Big Apple!

At the end of March, Jennifer Freed and Rendy Freedman will be consulting with and educating youth providers at The Meeting House, an out-of-school non-profit program in New York City:

La Colina Junior High School Joins the AHA! Peace Builders Initiative

We received a grant award from the Open Society Foundations to start a new AHA! Peace Builders Initiative at La Colina Junior High School! Starting with their training on March 14th, 10 eighth grade youth became AHA! Peace Builders; they will become part of a weekly club to end hate speech and promote inclusivity, kindness, and respect for everyone.

We hope to enroll more youth there – if you know parents or students at La Colina, please tell them about AHA! Peace Builders!

Sing It Out Documentary by Culture Spark Media Set to Release by April 30th

This documentary by filmmakers Carly Otness and Brett Bollier follows youth and staff in AHA!'s 2016 Sing It Out after-school group. It highlights the uniqueness and impact of the AHA! Method.
